The event was conducted with the objective of enhancing students' oratory skills, analytical capabilities, and understanding of financial matters. It highlighted the importance of financial literacy and analytical skills in the modern business environment. Student presenters delivered informative sessions covering various aspects of financial statements. The theme "Decoding Financial Statements" centred on the importance of interpreting financial information in the corporate world. Financial statements provide a clear picture of an organisation's performance, financial position, and cash management. The theme emphasized how proper analysis of the Balance Sheet, Income Statement, and Cash Flow Statement enables stakeholders to assess profitability, liquidity, solvency, and operational efficiency. It also underlined the relevance of financial literacy for students aspiring to build careers in business, finance, and entrepreneurship.

A total of 23 students participated enthusiastically in the competition. The speakers presented insightful viewpoints on topics such as ratio analysis, trend evaluation, identification of financial strengths and weaknesses, and understanding the practical implications of financial data. Their speeches reflected strong conceptual knowledge and the ability to connect theoretical learning with real-world business situations.

Participants were assessed on parameters including relevance of content, depth of analysis, clarity of expression, confidence, and overall presentation skills. The judging panel commended the participants for their structured arguments, clarity of concepts, and confident stage presence. The results were declared as First Position: Laveeshaa and Riya; Second Position: Sheetal Azad and Rimi; and Third Position: Anvara and Khushi.

The event turned out to be both informative and engaging, promoting financial awareness and strengthening analytical thinking among students. The Department of Business Studies continues to organize such enriching activities to support comprehensive student development. An engaging question-and-answer session followed the presentations. Participants raised queries regarding financial reporting standards, ratio interpretation, and the practical use of annual reports by investors and managers. The discussion enhanced the overall learning experience and encouraged active participation. The seminar concluded with a vote of thanks delivered by the student coordinator, expressing gratitude to the faculty members, presenters, participants, and organizing committee for their support and contribution to the successful conduct of the event.
